Times IV

This book is a testament to the fact that dreams do come true and that anything is possible when our faith is in God. We must always have the ability to see the light at the end of the tunnel. In my eyes, that light represents perfect faith. Although we may never be perfectly faithful, I feel the different moments of love and struggle in our lives bring us closer to that faith. "Faith.Love.Struggle." is comprised of poems dating back to 2002 up until the present. Each poem gives insight into my life and shows how times of love and struggle have made me more faithful while molding me into the man I am today.

"Our main problem here is that we allow our mind to wander free when we need it to be focused and to focus on the things we should release." The Lama said. "We need to discipline our mind to avoid being dominated by the continuum" He continued. "And what is the continuum?" I asked, abruptly interrupting him. He looked at me with a smile and answered: "What we call continuum, are those thoughts that seem to never leave our mind. Those sounds and memories that keep repeating as a broken old record in our mind without control". I am sharing in these chapters my thoughts and life experiences with the hope I can change my inner continuum, by reminding me of those lessons that have shaped my present mindset. I hope you find something useful in them and maybe they could give you some ideas to create a better continuum for yourself. Thank you from the bottom of my heart for coming with me in this inner quest. May the Light be with you always.

Theia North never believed in writer's block until after her first romance novel was on the NYT Best Sellers List. Pressure mounted and she couldn't seem to find the words for her next book. Elliot Asher has no idea Theia's an author when he sees her wandering around the snowy woods talking to herself. Curious he follows the beautiful, but quite possibly insane woman without being seen. True crime stories provide the foundation of this prison memoir. Bill Dyer was robbed and shot at an ATM. In Doing Time with God, you go into prison with him and other victims of violence to meet with convicted felons who will be facing their worst and greatest realizations, before they are released. Nothing is predictable when victims and offenders come together and share their stories of the true crimes that have devastated their lives and reshaped them. Victim-survivors remember their losses and feel their pain; Offenders come face-to-face with the hurt they have caused, and open wounds from their own past. Walls of defensiveness and fear are knocked down by empathy and compassion, vulnerability and tears. Raw emotions flow. The way to peace is often intense, turbulent, and heartbreaking. Even when it's not pretty, the journey is beautiful in its honesty miraculous in the way it unfolds divine in how it transforms lives. 10 gold medals don't come easy First comes the graft. Thousands of hours on the pedals, forever turning left, following that black line round, pushing your body harder than it is designed to go. Then comes the sacrifice. All familiar pleasures stripped away in search of perfection. Then the pain. Muscles burning, stomach churning, an ache in the bones. To pull all of this together to achieve an Olympic gold is impressive; to be part of a couple doing this in the same sport is rare; to do it ten times between you is unprecedented. Laura Trott and Jason Kenny, Britain's most successful female and male Olympians, invite us into their world, on to the boards of the velodrome and down the back straight of British pro cycling to give us the inside track on what it takes to become a champion. This is the story of the races that gripped a nation; one of sprints and pursuits, tactics, mind games, medals and trials; of being so tired you collapse by the side of the track, so out of form you can't finish a practice session; of what goes through the mind of an Olympian as they power towards the finish line; and of how a boy from Bolton and a girl from Cheshunt became the best in the world, while finding in each other the perfect partner.

The third volume of the book series deals with negative emotions, such as worry and sadness, and specific emotional problems, such as drinking or dealing with pain. The volume moves from these negative and most basic emotions to positive ones, for it concludes with chapters on love and motivation, in particular. The main theme of this volume is that we can use emotions to our advantage, that emotions color all our activities, and that we can control them when they are negative. This third book in the book series concludes with a chapter on rewriting the stories that we tell about ourselves so that they are more positive.

The Inside Track describes the methods Alan used to generate over $50,000 profit from his betting during 1997. The author has studied many American texts and explains how he has mixed their ideas with his own 30 years experience of British racing and betting. There are no systems, no rules and no guarantees in this book, yet anybody who likes to bet on horse racing is sure to find material here that will challenge accepted beliefs and persuade them to think in new ways about their betting. In his first book, Alan explained that to make a living it was necessary to bet Against The Crowd. This book expands on that and takes the reader inside the mind of one of the most successful professional punters operating in the country. There are separate sections covering Flat racing and Jumping, and also detailed discussions of All-weather racing and the growing world of spread betting.
